

Don't Feel Too Secure.

Right now, the police, the FBI, the IRS, the NSA, the CIA or any one of 100 government agencies could be spying on you, infiltrating your organization or disrupting your life.

THE INTELLIGENCE NETWORK, a new film revealing the extent of political surveillance and its effects on you at home and abroad.

J. Edgar Hoover's vendetta against Martin Luther King...the infiltration of the Methodist Church...the Chicago Police attack on Fred Hampton...the CIA's role in Chile and the world...the recent infiltration of the American Indian Movement...current surveillance of nuclear power opponents...the uncontrolled activities of the secret police fraternity known as the LEIU...

INCLUDING...a lengthy interview with an FBI informant in Denver... an inside account of the assassination of Orlando Letelier...testimony by a union organizer from Detroit...and statements by political activists who have been wiretapped, spied on, monitored and physically attacked.

Documented by recently-released files from the intelligence agencies themselves, THE INTELLIGENCE NETWORK combines personal accounts and expert analysis to create a dramatic presentation of government misconduct.

- THE INTELLIGENCE NETWORK. A 35 min., 16 mm., color documentary film.

The secret alliance between college professors and administrators and the CIA has destroyed the independence and integrity of the American academic community.

SPIES ON CAMPUS

BY ERNEST VOLKMAN

In the early spring of 1976, Harvard University President Derek Bok began reading a 651-page green paperbound book with the forbidding title, "Foreign and Military Intelligence: Final Report of the Select Committee to Study Governmental Operations with Respect to Intelligence Activities" (more popularly known as the Church Committee Report).

Like most other prominent academics, Bok was aware that for years some members of the academic community and the CIA had joined together in a secret relationship to turn many of America's university and college campuses into virtual espionage centers. He was aware that a number of professors and administrators were secretly working for the CIA, recruiting prospective agents among students, spying for the agency while overseas, sometimes helping to spy on "troublemaking" students, and using the cover of research institutes and other projects to gather intelligence.

And, most important, Bok was aware that people at Harvard were involved. He did not know how many or who they were, but he wanted it stopped.

Because the Church Committee had spent more than a year in investigating the CIA's domestic operations, including involvement with academia, Bok carefully read through the committee's final report, looking for facts—facts that would allow him to write up guidelines for the university to set strict limits on such work for anybody who worked there.

But the report was a disappointment. On page 189, Bok found, instead of facts, this general statement: "The Central Intelligence Agency is now using several hundred American academics, who in addition to providing leads and, on occasion, making introductions for intelligence purposes, occasionally write books and other material to be used for propaganda purposes abroad. Beyond these, an additional few score are used in an unwitting manner for minor activities."

"These academics are located in over 100 American colleges, universities, and related institutes."

The report went on to recommend that the universities and colleges themselves "set the professional and ethical standards of its members," and that federal legislation prohibiting CIA activities on

Shortly after Bok finished reading the Church Committee report, he gathered together a small group of men to take a close look at the CIA-Harvard link and come up with guidelines for the university governing such activity. Bok made no public announcement of his action, despite the fact that his group included some Harvard heavyweights with extensive Washington experience. Among them was Archibald Cox, ex-Watergate special prosecutor, and Don Price, then dean of the university's Kennedy School of Government and an old Washington hand. (Ironically, Harvard's School of Government has provided many of the most infamous presidential advisers on "national security" affairs, including Henry Kissinger, who was in charge of all covert operations for most of the Nixon years; McGeorge Bundy, a Harvard dean who performed the same function for John Kennedy; and Samuel Huntington, now on Carter's National Security Council.)

We invite you to attend a special "Preview" of "The Intelligence Network" - a new film produced by the Campaign for Political Rights.

Tuesday, February 13, 1979
4:00pm
(Doors will be open at 3:45pm)

Folger Theater
Second and East Capitol Sts.
Washington, D.C.

This new documentary combines expert analysis with personal accounts of political surveillance in a 35-minute study of U.S. intelligence agency activity at home and abroad. Based on information obtained through Freedom of Information requests, citizens' lawsuits and Congressional investigations, "The Intelligence Network" reveals past and current abuses of local, state and federal intelligence agencies.

The "Preview" is by invitation only. Those invited include representatives of the administration and the intelligence community, members of Congress and the press, as well as critics of the intelligence agencies. This special viewing has been scheduled to provide you the opportunity to see the film prior to its nationwide distribution.

"The Intelligence Network" makes an important contribution to the continuing national debate over intelligence agency reform. The film raises issues which are of great concern: the proper role of the intelligence agencies in the post-Watergate era, the legitimate information requirements of government and the protection of political rights in this country and around the world.

We hope that you will join us to view this film.
